

HAPPENINGS IN AND ABOUT TOWN

SEN. WILLIAMS
TO OPEN HERE

Mississippi Solon Will Fire
First Gun for Democracy in South Bend.

John Sharp Williams, United States senator from Mississippi, probably, one of the most prominent members of congress, will open the democratic campaign in South Bend on the evening of Sept. 28. St. Joseph county democrats will arrange for a big rally on the occasion of Sen. Williams' address. The announcement of the formal campaign opening date was made last night by E. J. Twomey at the organization meeting of the Wilson club held at the Elks' temple.

The auditorium of the temple was filled with democratic party workers and members of the Wilson club who had been called together for a discussion of organization methods for the fall campaign. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Twomey and the speakers of the evening included Congressman Henry A. Barnhart, candidate for re-election, who talked for a few minutes. E. A. East of Warsaw, district chairman, Homer L. Cook, secretary of state, and John F. Geckler of Indianapolis, a former member of the progressive party who is this year advocating the cause of Pres't Wilson.

Barnhart Confident.

"I have not had the heart to begin a strenuous campaign thus far," explained Congressman Barnhart, in pointing out his recent bereavement as the cause, "but there has never been a year when I felt better prepared to look men in the eye and tell them the truth. The democratic national administration has a record to which it can point with pride and there is nothing we can feel ashamed of during the period in which Pres't Wilson has presided over the nation. We are being criticized by the republicans. But the opposition seems unable to get together. Hughes has denounced the Adamson eight hour law but seems to forget that 67 republicans voted for that bill. I will tell you why Hughes is denouncing this law. He wants the good will of the great railways in this country in order that they may pour funds into his campaign coffers. For the same reason he denounces the banking laws—not because he feels the legislation of the past years is wrong, but because he wants the support of Wall st. He urges high tariff because he wants the lords of high protection to come across and give him their aid."

Congressman Barnhart declared that he hoped to return to South Bend for a real campaign speech and meeting sometime before election.

Geckler Lands Wilson.

Mr. Geckler opened his address by declaring Pres't Wilson as "the foremost progressive in America." The speaker was one of the leading progressives in Central Indiana after the birth of that party and acted as chairman of the 1912 state convention before which Albert J. Beveridge made his famous opening address.

"I am a battle scarred veteran of Armageddon," declared Geckler. "I introduced Beveridge at that famous convention where he told of the 'invisible government' at Washington. He expressed the sentiments of that army of men who were progressive. We expected the party to grow. But it was not to be."

Dubs Roosevelt Faker.

"The general at Armageddon betrayed us and went to the other side. He is the most colossal political faker in the history of American politics."

Geckler, in description of Theodore Roosevelt won the approval of the Wilson club. The speaker explained that principles of the progressive party were much to him. But he declared that the party had been stabbed in the back and left to die.

"Therefore I did the next best thing and am supporting Woodrow Wilson, the greatest progressive in the country," he asserted.

Discusses Organization.

Homier Cook spent considerable time in discussing organization and later took up the charges which have been made against the state administration by "Jim" Goodrich, republican candidate for governor. Relative to organization the speaker pointed out the methods to be employed by the precinct workers in getting out the voters on registration day, Oct. 9, telling them to devote their time to this work until registration had been completed. He pointed out that every man who intended to vote at the Nov. 7 election must register if he hopes to cast a ballot.

"Go to the honest progressives who were sincere in their sentiments of four years ago and show them by record and not by promise that they should vote for Pres't Wilson. Show them the progressive legislation that has been enacted by a democratic administration. Republicans are going around the country criticizing Wilson, but there isn't one of them who can fill his shoes. No man since Abraham Lincoln, has faced the great problems, the responsibilities and borne the burdens that Woodrow Wilson has met like the great statesman he is."

By urging the passage of the Adamson bill, Wilson averted the greatest calamity that could have befallen the American people. The first day of the great strike would have meant suffering, the second, hardship and the third day starvation which might have been followed by a terrible eruption in the nation."

Centennial Pageant Director

Henry B. Roney began his study of music here in South Bend when as a boy of twelve he entered the old Normal-Musical institute, which may account for his supreme effort to make South Bend's centennial celebration a success. But those that know the man realize that he also has another motive, that is, his overmastering love of music and all forms of art of whatever kind. He is the true musician in that his soul is in his work.

Even before Mr. Roney left South Bend many years ago he had gained a reputation as a musician and a choir director which has been steadily enhanced by his work since then and he has won a national reputation in several lines of musical endeavor. He has been chorus director of several of the largest choirs in Chicago and was choirmaster of the Chicago Diocesan Choir association for some years and director of the chorus at the World's Fair.

Mr. Roney has lately devoted himself principally to publishing music, but when he heard of the great celebration which his old home town, South Bend was planning, his interest in the city induced him to offer his services in the work and even compose several pieces of music for the occasion. With his enthusiasm behind it the centennial celebration can hardly fail of success.

RETIRED MAIL
CARRIER TALKS

John Poyser Says Tanlac Helped Wife More Than Anything Else.

John W. Poyser, a retired mail carrier who lives at 739 South Bend avenue, South Bend, gave a statement on September 5, regarding the relief his wife gained through use of Tanlac, the celebrated new medicine.

"Mrs. Poyser suffered from rheumatism and her stomach also was out of order," he said. "She had severe pains in her limbs, feet and ankles and sometimes her feet and ankles would become swollen. She also was troubled with indigestion. After eating, gas would accumulate in her stomach and cause her to feel uncomfortable. Her appetite was very poor."

"Tanlac was so highly praised by others that Mrs. Poyser decided to try it. She has taken two bottles of Tanlac now and the swellings and pains in her limbs and feet caused by rheumatism are rapidly disappearing. Her appetite is fine now and she suffers no bad after effects of eating as before."

"Tanlac really has helped my wife more than anything else and it's only natural that I should feel thankful. I recommend Tanlac."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite and the like and is a fine strength builder and a general tonic.

Tanlac now being introduced in South Bend at the Public drug store where a special Tanlac representative is explaining the new medicine to the public.—Advt.

HOW POLICEMAN SOLVES
PROBLEM OF FOOT EASE

Police men, street car men, mail carriers and all others who are on their feet constantly will be interested in the successful experiment of a Chicago policeman who has solved the question of having no foot trouble. This policeman stands at the intersection of two busy streets, directing traffic all day. By night his feet used to torment him. He couldn't sleep for the pains and aches they gave him. Then he heard of Na-Na-Ta and he bought a box. Two or three of these tablets in a bowl of hot water, a few minutes' bathing, and all the trouble was gone. He felt cool, comfortable and happy. You can use Na-Na-Ta with delightful effect in your feet. It leaves skin soft and antiseptically clean. You can get Na-Na-Ta from your druggist. It only costs 2 cents. If your druggist hasn't it, we will gladly send you a sample package if you will send us 10 cents to cover cost of packing and mailing to your address. I. C. London Co., South Bend, Ind.—Advt.
